Background

Genji

Calling himself as the sexiest, funniest and more intrepid cyberninja, is a 27 years old man born in a city called Gon, rebuilt and modified by genetists and cybernetists when he was just a kid due to an accident that almost costed him his life, he grew as half human half machine, having some problems due to that, but he didn't care at all, he was happy with his body and his abilities, thing that made him feel special.

Being such a charismatic and extrovert person helped him to overcome several problems his mechanical body brought him, like bullying, racism, etc., but for that he always had the phrase "you can't against this sensuality"

During his youth he studied in the space colony Neo México, where he became friend of two guys from earth called Samus and Zack, he spend 5 years there until they all graduated, losing all contact with his friends. He spent one year travelling, trying to find his reason to exist, after a while he decided to become a mercenary, looking for his own interests, hunting, executing risky missions, even committing assaults, everything to get paid and keep travelling, knowing more places.

Samus

Being the youngest of a group of three friends, she's was known to be a nerdy girl, always having the highest grades, studying for long periods of time, and even training martial arts, during the school he used to be in the library or gym most of them time, frequently taken out by his friends who wanted to have fun, once graduated and due to her fighting skill she became a soldier for the Space Force of Green Angel city, an organization made to protect the city and the nearby, the sense of justice and to do the right things that has always characterized Samus made her accept immediately. Right now she's 25 years old and works on an extraction mission for a supposed energy resource that could supply the city for almost one century, thing that reminds her how the space colony where she was born was shattered when it ran out of energy and drove itself to a collision.

Zack

Coming from a rich family and birth in Purple Pegasus City, he was sent to the space colony Neo Mexico to finish his studies, place where he met Samus and Genji, who soon became his closest friends, even he had a proud attitude, and a little egoist, always taking care his look, and specially his hair, was perfect. Gym, sports, haircuts, always trying to look good for everyone. After he left school he came back to his city of origin, inheriting his father's throne becoming the president of the city and the leader of the Armed forces. His proud personality made him want power and transform Purple Pegasus into the most powerful city, one that any other would fear, and once he heard there was an immense power supply hiding in the rests of Gon city, he decided to go by himself and bring it home, becoming the youngest "hero" at just the age of 28.

Green Angel City

A place known by its technological advances, focusing on clean energy, green natural products and the highest level of quality of life for his habitants, this place was built for the necessity of ecological technology that could restore earth from all the pollution and damage done.

Purple Pegasus City

Zack family's city, a place mainly focused on weapon and military productions, the habitants are forced to join the army no matter what, being under a very strict regimen. There's no crime here, but people must obey government rules or they are just executed.

Gon City

500 years ago was the main center for trading and agriculture, having huge water reserves with a vast and varied climate, a state of peace and respect between it habitant, the city was on its best years, but during one experiment trying to create a new power supply, something went wrong, an explosion followed by a radioactive wave shattered everything, devastation of the city was insane, the few who survived built tunnels under the city but just made their suffering longer, the time passed and Gon city became an abandoned city, the people nobody would go, not yet.
